BROTHER OF LOCAL CITIZEN IS KILLED AT KIMBERLEY

Word was received here last week end of the death of Aleg. Rea, brother of Isaac Rea, of Blairmore.

Mr. Rea was killed outright on Friday by a fall of rock in a Kimberley mine. He was fifty-six years of age, and is survived by his wife and one grown-up daughter. He came to Canada from the Old Country in 1905, residing in Nova Scotia for several years with his brother Isaac before both came west to Blairmore. He left Blairmore quite a number of years ago.

The funeral services took place at Kimberley on Sunday afternoon, Rev. A. N. McMillan, of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Members of the Kimberley branch of the Canadian Legion, of which he was a member, were present in full force, and with the Kimberley band also in attendance, a very impressive military service resulted. Following the service, the procession marched as far as the Sullivan hotel, with the band playing the "Dead March," and proceeded to the cemetery, where final services took place. The Legion members paid the past the casket, and each dropped a poppy, while the band accompanied the well known hymn, "Lead Kindly Light." The "Last Post" was sounded by Comrade Joe DeGroote, formerly of Blairmore, and so another war veteran received the last respects of his comrades.

Pallbearers were W. Turnbull, P. Lye, K. Brunner, E. McLellan, F. Sutherland, Arthur Shearer, R. W. Ford and O. P. Callaghan.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Rea and family and Frank Leary, of Blairmore, attended the last rites.

With the increased sympathy.

Light draft horses from southern Alberta will be shipped to the Fiji Islands, via Vancouver. These islands, a British colony since 1874, are about 250 in number, and are located 17 degrees south of the equator and more than a thousand miles east of Australia.

Ill luck seems to follow Hartley Upham, local tonalist artist. Last fall he suffered a broken arm when pinned against a wall in a stable by a horse. On Monday evening of this week, while riding a saddle horse, the animal slipped when rounding a corner and fell, crushing Hartley's leg beneath it. Taken to the local hospital, the limb was found to be fractured in two or three places. It will be weeks before he will be able to be around again. In the meantime, however, his barber shop is operating under charge of Mr. Wilett.

TO THE HOUSEWIVES OF BLAIRMORE AND DISTRICT

Stop! Read! Reflect! Then buy! After reading the following, it is hoped that when buying supplies for Empire Day, on May the 23rd, that you buy CANADIAN AND EMPIRE GOODS, and incidentally, help your own family, relatives, country and empire as well.

You, as a housewife, play the most important part in the business life of Canada, because women purchase approximately 85% of the total goods in the Dominion every year.

In a recent survey, it was discovered that in the year ending March 31st, 1931, $3,500,000 was spent on imported canned goods; but if Canadian women decided to buy only Canadian canned goods, this amount of extra business would be diverted to Canadian factories. Every time you buy a can of imported fruit, you automatically take away a sale from a Canadian grower of fruit, a Canadian sugar factory which refines the raw sugar, a Canadian can factory, a Canadian printer who produces the labels, a Canadian ink manufacturer, a Canadian plant which supplies the paper for the label, a Canadian box factory which makes the containers, a Canadian lumber firm which supplies the lumber for the boxes, an Canadian lumberjack who cuts the timber, and many other Canadian workmen.

Now, let us look at some official figures. Do you know that Canada purchased $730,000 worth of foreign-canned peaches, pears and apricots in one year; yet British Columbia and the Niagara district grows an cans some of the finest fruit in the world. Canadians purchased $40,000 worth of foreign-canned peas in one year. Why? Canadians purchased $28,000,000 worth of fruits and vegetables from foreign sources in one year. These could have been bought from the British West Indies. Canadians purchased $1,000,000 worth of bacon and ham from the United States in one year. And so figures and illustrations could be continued and what is the result? We are providing work for the workingmen and women of other countries, but our own.

Now, as unselfish housewives are loyal citizens, let us unite and give our country's products a boost on Empire Day by buying for that day and throughout Canadian and Empire goods. Ask your merchant for Canadian and Empire brands, and incidentally do your bit for Canada and the Empire.

WESTERN PROVINCES GET NEW SCHOOL READERS

Seven books of the new series "Highroads to Reading," which will be accepted as school readers used in the four western provinces, have been adopted, and have been allotted to different publishing firms, according to word from Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education.

For the last two years representatives of the Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia governments have been in conference to adopt uniform readers in their schools, and the work is now completed, so far as seven readers are concerned.

The new readers will be introduced into Alberta schools at the commencement of the 1935 fall term.

HEAVY DEMANDS FOR TOURIST INFORMATION

There is an exceptionally heavy demand for tourist literature this spring at the provincial publicity bureau, which is taken to press an increase in tourists to the province.

A new tourist booklet, together with a revised and extended tourist map and guide is issued and being distributed through travel agencies and tourist bureaus throughout the continent. The provincial government has also been asked to present its views on tourist traffic development to the senate committee at Ottawa.

Japan Menaces World Peace

World opinion apparently is agreed that Japan is engaged in intensive preparations for war, primarily with Soviet Russia, and by hegemony of Asia and the Pacific as the direct objective. The evidences cited in support of that opinion are amenable to no other interpretation. There is no gainsaying the fact Japan has embarked on an imperialist policy strangely reminiscent of that which agitated pre-war Europe and which brought civilization to the verge of catastrophe.

Even the time has been set, it is claimed, by Japan's military experts. Armageddon will be let loose in the Orient late in 1935 or early in 1936. A world still struggling to escape the bitter aftermath of a Great War, then, at no far distant date, will be faced with another, which, unless due precautions are taken, may complete the havoc of the last. The chancellories of the world, the House of Commons at Ottawa, economists and statesmen generally, are satisfied Japan is headed for war.

What are the evidences which have provided front page stories for newspapers, leading articles for editors and journalists, texts for sermons and subjects for radio lectures, and which point so unmistakably to war in the Far East?

Ever since its Shanghai and Manchurian adventures, Japan has been showing its hand, and has made it plain that establishment of a dummy kingdom, Manchukuo, under its puppet emperor, did not satisfy Nipponese ambitions with respect to the Asiatic mainland. Withdrawal from the League of Nations was but a considered step in a pre-conceived plan which envisaged war with Soviet Russia as a necessary preliminary to further imperialistic expansion. The recent ultimatum to the great powers designed to prevent financial or armament aid to China, is indicative of the fact that Japan proposes to exercise complete intolerance over that vast territory. The ultimate consequence is a trans-Pacific "Monroe doctrine," directly affects Great Britain and the United States, both of which have far greater financial interests in China than has Japan.

Furthermore, Japan is aiming at greater speed than any other country in the world. More than 40 per cent. of its budgetary expenditures are earmarked for armament purposes. The Nipponese air force is among the most potent in the world. It is asserted the Japanese government is about to demand naval parity with Great Britain and the United States. So far as armaments are an augury, therefore, they point to not far distant war.

What of the economic aspect of the situation, perhaps the most significant of all?

That Japan should have imperialistic ambitions is, of course, a direct sequel to its adoption of western "machine" civilization. The growth of its industrial plant and productive power has been accompanied by a rapid growth of population. In ten years, Japan's population has increased from 56,000,000 to 66,000,000. It presses upon the resources of the country. Strangely enough, it has reached the same point at which Germany felt the urge for "elbow room" at all or any cost.

The entire population of the Japanese Islands has been enlisted in a gigantic effort to capture world markets. Systematic inflation of currency, ruthless exploitation of the masses, are component parts of the state's mechanism for development of export trade. Japan's exports have doubled themselves in three years. Against the flood of cheap Japanese goods, loosed upon world markets at "murderously low prices," tariff barriers have proved unavailing. Sixty per cent. of Japan's production is exported. Britain and Germany, even in the heyday of their foreign trade expansion, never exceeded 25 per cent.; the United States never has exported more than 10 or 12 per cent.

"Such a mass attack on world trade contains the seeds of its own destruction," says one writer, who believes "the foundations will crumble beneath the weight of excessive export trade maintained by the most frantic exploitation of the native population. Through forced labor, child labor, sweat-shop conditions, generally, Japan is selling abroad at less than production costs—in Japan! The government is behind the productive machine and the export program. Because of its actions, capital equipment (convertible to war purposes) multiplied, dividends are high, while workers slave and their families starve."

How long will it last? The "machine" is geared to run until Japan is ready for war. It would appear to be a race between preparedness on the one hand and national breakdown and insurrection on the other. War will be declared on first threat of the internal crash.

Thus international experts read the handwriting on the wall. Can the counter-motion for peace gain weight enough to prevent the catastrophe before Japan has reached the breaking point?

Removes Brain Tumor

Marvel Of Surgery Reported From Leningrad

Removal of a brain tumor from a young girl under local anesthesia by Prof. Polenov at the Leningrad Institute of Traumatology, was hailed as a marvel of surgery.

The tumor, the size of a pigeon's egg, was in the middle of the fourth ventricle, and threatened the patient with blindness. To obtain access, the surgeon had to displace the great hemispheres of the brain. The patient was apparently completely relieved.

Few precedents for this operation are cited in world medical annals.

All British army officers having the full rank of general are over 60 years old.

Unusual Use For Honey

As Foundation For Golf Ball It Is Excellent

The uses to which honey is put are many and various, but perhaps the most unusual is in making golf balls. The honey is placed in a round stout rubber sac and is forced in under tremendous pressure. Around this the usual rubber is wound and it has the ordinary outside. It is said that honey being non-evaporative and virtually unaffected by time or temperature will give a ball that will stand up under all conditions.

Building Up Air Force

Purchase of 24 Seagull amphibian aeroplanes to cost $1,725,000 was announced by the minister of defence, recently after announcement of construction of a heavy cruiser in Australia's program of increasing her defences in view of the uncertain situation in the far east.

A Tired, Worn Out Woman Can't Make a Happy Home

There is no happiness in the home when the mother is sick and worn by the never ending household duties. She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, has shortness of breath, faint and dizzy, can't sleep, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as she went to bed, and is downhearted and disengaged.

Milburn's H. & N. Pills will soon convince women it is not necessary to suffer, as they build up the nervous system and bring back the former health and vigor.

Search For New Worlds

Astronomers Looking For Planets Four Billion Miles Away

An intensive search by astronomers for more planets in the solar system, which has already suspected to exist for centuries past, nearly four billion miles from the earth, was announced by the American Philosophical Society. The new planet, if successful, may add several more "worlds" to the nine now known to circle around the sun. Astronomers believe it is "not improbable" that several other earth-sized planets similar to Pluto may be circling unseen in space. Pluto is a lonely, forlorn step-child of the sun, more than 40 times as far from the sun as the earth, and so must be extremely cold and completely lifeless and desolate. It is 10,000 miles in diameter, somewhat larger than the earth, but weighs only half as much.

CRAWLING ABOUT WITH LUMBAGO

Here is some useful information for anyone troubled with that uncomfortable complaint, lumbago. A woman writes:

"For years I suffered from lumbago. During wet weather, I could not turn over in bed without great pain and I was so stiff and ached so much. Two years ago I had both lumbago and sciatica, and crawled about for a fortnight, fearing my son would myself become lame in 100 days. Someone said, 'Try Kruschen Salts,' so I did, and I have taken them ever since, with the result that I hardly ever feel pain now. This morning I had a slight attack, but the Kruschen salts have been added to the population within the past decade, and there are 50,000 new houses built each year. London is growing, therefore, at the rate of 150,000 persons a year—virtually another big city is joined onto London every twelve months.

At that rate plus the present million and a half advantage, New York is engaging in a hopeless chase if trying to overtake London.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Famous Painting Found

Picture By Millais Passed Out Of Notice In 1875

After many years of search, Millais' famous picture, "No." is now owned by the sister of the model. The picture which was the chief topic of the Royal Academy Exhibition of 1875, shows a young woman reading a letter in which she has refused a marriage proposal. The original sitter was Miss Dorothy Tenant, who afterward became Lady Stanley, wife of Sir Henry M. Stanley, the explorer. It was once sold for $7,000. The recent buyer was Mrs. F. W. Myers, sister of the late Lady Stanley. She had been searching for it for years, but it passed out of notice when bought privately shortly after the 1875 Academy exhibition.

Cars Easier To Control

If Accidents Occur Drivers Are Largely To Blame

Motor cars of to-day, while swifter of pace, are easier to control than they have ever been. Braking equipment and steering mechanisms have been perfected, thus providing a greater degree of safety, steers and brakes entering into the design of engine and chassis are capable of withstanding greater strains. The fault then, it is clear, is that of the drivers of motor cars—those drivers, particularly, who, despite the convincing testimony of the casualty lists, will not recognize that the modern motor car, carelessly handled, is an engine of death and destruction.

Abby Gets Milk Bath

Historic Westminster Abbey recently received a milk bath. Workers applied gallon after gallon of skimmed milk to its massive arches, pillars and even its statutes. The treatment, recommended by architectural expert, was intended not only to clean the stone work, but to aid in preserving it. The results will be watched with care, although it is said five years must elapse before the value of the treatment is apparent.

What Eating Costs

Here is something to worry about. If you only spend an average of 25 cents per meal during your lifetime, it costs you $19,250 to satisfy the "man." Average individuals eat 77,000 meals for lifetime, according to statistics compiled by Mr. Davison, who presided at a meeting of meatpack and grocery owners, restaurant and hotel men, national refrigeration experts and city health authorities at Cincinnati recently.

"My husband wired me from Paris on my birthday asking whether he should buy me a Rembrandt or a Titian. Now, which would you have?"

"Well, as far as that goes, most of these French cars are very good."

Holds False Teeth Tight As Cement

Keeps mouth sanitary, breath fresh, special comfort-cushion prevents soreness and from getting sore. Small cost—any druggists.

Old London Growing Fast

Every Year 150,000 People Added To Big Metropolis

Figures have been quoted by American statisticians to show that within so many years New York will be a larger city than London. Presumably that means Greater New York and Greater London, because the working population of both cities, as is the case with all large centres, is owing to vastly better transport services, living in the outer rings of the business areas.

New York is still about a million and a half behind, and if it is going to catch up on London it will have to go some.

Lord Ashfield, the Englishman who once drove a street car in Detroit, and who is now the chairman of the London Passenger Transport Board, has tried to estimate the traffic needs of Greater London. He told an audience the other day that London is attracting new industries at the rate of 1,000 per annum. London doesn't ask for them. They just want to locate in the midst of the largest assemblage of human beings in the world. By this means 750,000 people have been added to the population within the past decade, and there are 50,000 new houses built each year.

London is growing, therefore, at the rate of 150,000 persons a year—virtually another big city is joined onto London every twelve months.

At that rate plus the present million and a half advantage, New York is engaging in a hopeless chase if trying to overtake London.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Another Fad Diet

Bananas And Skim Milk Latest Ideas For Reducing

One more is added to the list of fat diets for reducing. This one, consisting of bananas and skim milk, is reported to have the recommendation of physician connected with the Johns Hopkins University. Bridge table connoisseurs doubtless may be inclined to spread the new skim-milk-banana gospel.

Both the banana and milk deprived of cream are acknowledged to be wholesome foods. But the fact remains that there is real danger in issuing for general application any prescription no matter how great the authority as endorsing it. What may be good for one person for accomplishing any particular change, may be positively harmful to another seeking the same result.

Those who want to reduce should not take the advice of a friend even if that advice is passed on from a physician's directions based upon a careful physical examination. Such a physician might give entirely different advice to his patient's friend.

A Novel Clock

An amusing clock has been designed which at first sight resembles a picture of rather modernistic "flowers," a group of stems springing from the base, curve over slightly and sprays over the clock face so that the blossoms topping each falls into the place usually occupied by the numerals. The clock hands are shaped like two slender leaves. This novel clock is said to be quite easy to read.

Another Old Bible

Second 1613 Edition Has Been Found In Toronto

A 1613 Bible, possibly the second in existence in Toronto, came to light when it turned up for sale in a Bay street bookshop. The Upper Canada Bible Society has one 1613 Bible, and it was thought to be in a class by itself. It contains the Order of Common Prayer, then the historic John Speed Biblical genealogy and map of the Holy Land and a series of woodcuts with explanatory texts. The owner can throw little light on the history of the book. It had been in his wife's family as long as family records can be traced.

Based on official calculation of the per capita consumption of beef in England and Wales in 1929 at 70 pounds per annum—it has probably fallen below 65 pounds at the present time—the imports of Canadian cattle in 1933 gave the people of the United Kingdom a little over three days' supply of beef.

The amount of Canadian honey exported has been increasing steadily from 1,744,871 pounds in 1929 to 2,806,770 pounds in 1933. Of the total exported in 1929, 1,213,229 pounds went to the United Kingdom, while in 1933, 2,123,899 pounds were sent to market, indicating a growing market for Canadian honey in Great Britain.—The Agricultural Situation bulletin.

Nothing is definitely known as to the introduction of the potato into Canada. Derville, describing the life of the Acadians in 1699, speaks of wheat, maple sugar, and fish, but makes no mention of potatoes. Benjamin Sulte, the Canadian historian, writes that probably those potatoes were brought into Acadia by the Massachusetts troops in 1710. Pere Lafaitau, missionary near Montreal, writes that in 1716 that the Iroquois and other Canadian Indians ate potatoes.

Radio Is Still Wonderful

People Who Think Never Fall To Get Thrill

The public has heard so many wonderful broadcasts transmitted across oceans and continents that it has grown blasé and almost ceased to get a thrill out of radio nowadays. But those who still do a bit of thinking must be hard-shelled indeed if they fail sometimes to be moved.

In connection with the previous Byrd Antarctic expedition there was a remarkable incident. The New York Times radio editor was sitting in his office in Brooklyn talking to Byrd of short-wave sets. In order to avoid interruption from the office he took his telephone receiver off the hook. The office wanted to call him up but couldn't. The office was also in communication with another member of the expedition, who gave him a message to relay to their staff man a few miles away. They told the man in the Antarctic to tell their radio editor in Brooklyn to hang his receiver up as they wanted to talk to him. So the message to a man four or five miles away went very nearly to the South Pole and back to New York in a few seconds.

PAVE THE WAY FOR SOLUTION OF WAR DEBTS

London.—Strong hints were heard here that Great Britain expects a last-minute solution of the United States war debt problem as a result of decisions by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Belief was expressed that Mr. Roosevelt, by emphasizing that Washington stands for collection of the obligations due June 15 but will grant hearings to nations seeking reduced payments, paved the way for moves of some sort that would permit a new debt arrangement.

"Great Britain," one authority said, "is certain that some sort of amicable adjustment will be made before June 15. Britain is eager to discuss any proposal Mr. Roosevelt may have to offer."

Britain maintains her position is different from that of any other debtor. She points out she has as much owing her as she owes the United States and has been willing for years to drop her own collections if the United States will do the same.

Official advice, it was said, had not been received here from Washington regarding President Roosevelt's latest statements. Any decisions will have to be studied at some length when official notices are received, it was pointed out.

A token payment, some circles said, may be sent to the United States in June, regardless of whether negotiations looking toward a complete settlement have been started by that time.

The London press was rather unanimous in declaring there was little chance of the United States ever collecting all the money owing her. Payment of debts is one thing, but actual transfers of those payments without completely upsetting money equilibrium is another problem.

The Daily Telegraph succinctly summarized this when it said, "The United States will not take value in goods and the perverse laws of transfer forbid continued gold payments without ruinous results to commodity prices—which President Roosevelt is striving to raise."

So far as actual debt negotiations are concerned, there seemed no indication of any change in the British attitude that following her own representations on previous occasions the first move towards revision must come from the United States. The Telegraph also commented: "The condition precedent to just settlement is not peremptory summons to a 'meas tost' but a friendly invitation to a conference of equals."

The congressional horizon is far too restricted when it reflects from its purview the international debts and debts which other nations owe Great Britain." The Telegraph added: "And our share of reparations is about as recoverable as the outstanding debts of the Pharaohs."

The Times declared: "The difficulty is not that nations in distress are not able to pay what they owe, but that the traditional policy of the United States makes receipt of payment impossible." An attempt to sell millions of sterling credits for dollar credits, or gold, would immediately shove sterling down, and the dollar up, it pointed out. "The chief sufferer in such a case would be the United States."

Student Wins Gold Medal

Young Russian Takes High Honors At University Of British Columbia

Vancouver.—A young Russian student, George Michael Volkoff, who first came to Vancouver in 1924, won the governor-general's gold medal, highest award for members of the graduating class at the University of British Columbia, it was announced.

Volkoff, aged 24, had an average of 88 per cent. in all subjects. He had 100 per cent. in three subjects and took first class honors in physics and mathematics.

Volkoff was born in Harbin, Manchuria, where his father is professor in the Polytechnical Institute. He attended Lord Roberts school here and returned to Manchuria for several years before entering the university.

He has led his class every year and intends working for his master's degree here next session.

More Confidence Needed

W. Sanford Evans Places Responsibility For Depression Years

Montreal.—Reaction from the war and the actions of governments in the following years are responsible for the four-year depression from which the world is beginning to recover and not failure of the economic system, W. Sanford Evans, of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and leader of the opposition in the Manitoba legislature, told the Montreal Board of Trade.

Needful chiefly to-day, said Mr. Evans, was more confidence. If a business man could be given conditions under which he could lay out his propositions with security, the world would not be long in recovering.

Fortunately, he observed, there was reason for confidence. Canada had set its feet firmly on the road to recovery between April and July last year.

Discussing the economic system as it had obtained he admitted there might have been selfishness and smallness in business in the past but the ordinary method of conducting affairs by trial and error was preferable to the conception of planned economy as originated in Russia.

There had been intrusion in recent years of matters alien to the economic world. Some of these, he noted, had arisen from national policies or administrative regulations of an unusual nature not governed by economic consideration at all. Further, there had been intrusion of ideas, of formulae, of generalisations, and he warned against, the danger of too freely accepting these ideas.

War, he stated, was not in accordance with the economic system. "It was not the economic system but the necessities of war which led to those extreme inflations of currencies which took place during the war in practically every country, until prices were carried to extreme heights," he said.

Advice To Nurses

Should Take Up Work In Smaller Places

Montreal.—Nurses were advised to take up residence and practice in smaller places by Miss Elizabeth Smelte, chief superintendent for Canada of the Victorian Order of Nurses, at a dinner of the Alumnae Association of the Royal Victoria Hospital here.

Schemes submitted to the legislatures of British Columbia and Alberta appeared to indicate the coming of public responsibility in health matters, said Miss Smelte, and she wondered whether in future there would be two divisions, one for medical care, including hospitals, and the other for preventive work.

Discuss War Debts

President Roosevelt Has Talk With Belgium And France Ambassadors

Washington.—A re-statement of the United States' attitude toward war debts came from President Roosevelt and shortly thereafter the ambassadors of two nations that are in default—Belgium and France—called at the state department to discuss the matter.

The position outlined by the president called for an insistence upon payment by the debtor nations, but a willingness to talk over their individual problems separately and give consideration, either to proposals for token payments or for new terms of settlement.

Crude Oil Freight Rates

Matter To Be Considered By Board Of Railway Commissioners

Ottawa.—Proposed increases in freight rates on crude oil from southwestern United States to refineries in Western Canada will be considered by the board of railway commissioners in a series of hearings in Western Canada, commencing in Regina, May 22.

Afterward hearings will be in Edmonton, May 25; Vancouver, May 28; Calgary, June 1, and Winnipeg, June 5. Dr. S. J. McLean, assistant chief commissioner, and J. A. Stoneman, commissioner, will make the western trip.

To Prevent Warfare

Calgary.—A resolution asking government control of key minerals as a method of war prevention, endorsed by the Vancouver Women's Canadian Club and the Calgary Business and Professional Women's Club, will be sent to the League of Nations Society, at Ottawa, for further action.

May Use Own Judgment

Britain Not Asking Dominions To Reduce Japanese Imports

London.—Britain has informed Dominions of its proposals in regard to Japanese competition, but has made no request for similar reduction of imports by Dominions, it was stated. Further, the government has gone to ask Dominions to consider whether they would care to deal with Japanese competition on their own initiative.

Canada for one, has a considerable favorable trade balance with Japan. New Zealand takes a comparatively negligible amount of Japanese imports.

A strong demand for textiles shares on the London stock exchange and sharp drops in quotations of Japanese bonds were the first results of Britain's lately-declared trade restrictions against Japan.

Criticizes Wheat Conference

Sir Herbert Robson Voices Views Of British Traders

London.—An attack on the work of the wheat conference by one of the British delegates, Sir Herbert Robson, was construed as simply an indication of the attitude of the grain traders.

Sir Herbert, president of the London Corn Trade Association, voiced the views of the Liverpool and London wheat traders when he decried "government interference" with the wheat trade and declared:

"Must I say I view with deep concern the increasing interference of governments with international trade?"

He criticized the current conference and a recent meeting of the commission in Rome "for concentrating on price and quota schemes rather than the production problem."

CROP PROSPECTS FOR WEST SAID BELOW AVERAGE

Ottawa.—Reports received from crop correspondents throughout Canada at the end of April indicated that the prospects for the 1934 crop were below average, according to a report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics. Since May 1, conditions had improved, however. Prospects were uncertain on the prairies.

Up to the end of April the most unfavorable conditions were reported on Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. In Manitoba and Saskatchewan, the crop prospects were lowered by the combination of wheat acreage and the extremely unfavorable soil and weather conditions.

In Alberta the spring season opened early. Soil-drifting was widespread but not as general nor as damaging as in the other prairie provinces. Rains fell at the end of the month to benefit crops already sown.

There has been no noticeable improvement in crop conditions in the prairie provinces. The scattered precipitation was not sufficient to settle the top-soil and further dust-storms have occurred, especially in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. The prevalence of soil drifting and the fear of grasshopper damage make prospects extremely uncertain. Conditions have been such as to lower the "intentions" expressed by farmers at the end of April rather than to increase them. This is especially true for wheat, "though the rise in prices is partial compensation."

Host To Siamese Royalty

LONDON.—The king and queen of Siam had luncheon at the House of Commons as guests of Captain Victor Cazzal, Conservative M.P., who was a public school colleague of King Prajadhipok at famous old Eton. It was believed to be the first occasion on which a ruling monarch had taken a meal in the precincts of the house.

PRINCIPALS IN STRANGE CONTROVERSY

The Duke of Atholl (left), who ran a sweepstakes last year for charity and was fined by a London court, recently figured in the news when he met the coincidence of being fined £25 after being told by a police inspector to plead guilty and the fine would be £25. Sir Thomas Inskip, K.C., British Solicitor General (right) denied the Duke's statement, at which the Duke came back steadfastly adhering to his previous statement. Hence a first-class controversy ensues.

CAUGHT AGAIN!

Undaunted by failure of two previous attempts to enter the United States, Hugh J. McLeod, Scottish war veteran, tried again this time as a stowaway on the Aquitania. He is shown at Ellis Island, after he had been captured. He was born with in San Francisco.

Salaries Of Bank Employees

Minimum Is $300 And Maximum $15,500 Per Annum

Ottawa.—Salaries of bank employees in Canada ranged from a minimum of $300 per annum for junior clerks up to a maximum of $15,500 for managers, according to a statement tabled before the banking committee of the House of Commons by Jackson Dodds, president of the Canadian Bankers Association. The statement was filed in response to a request from Dr. Raymond Morand (Con., Essex).

Salaries for junior clerks ranged from $300 to $1,000; ledgerkeepers $400 to $2,580; tellers, $500 to $2,620; accountants, $700 to $4,000; managers, $1,200 to $13,500; stampers $300 to $2,000, according to the statement.

The methods of four different banks in respect to pension fund, living allowances, insurance, schemes, etc., were outlined in the statement. The names of the banks were not given.

Heavy Damage From Flood

Peace River Has Risen Eighty Feet Above Normal

FORT CHIPPEWYAN, ALTA.—Sweeping buildings and trees in a mad rush, waters of the Peace River continued their record-breaking rampage as they rose 80 feet above the normal summer level at a point 100 miles west of here, reports reaching this point said. Never before in white man's knowledge or Indian's memory has the river reached such terrific flood proportions.

No lives were lost, but property damage is heavy. The flood meant the loss of the important spring muskrat catch to trappers who depended largely upon this for summer livelihood. Trees over 100 years old were swept away like matchwood as the waters struck after an ice jam of huge size gave way. Fortunately the area is sparsely populated, for had the flood been in the average riverside agricultural community, nothing could have saved those in its path.

CONSIDER PLAN TO STIMULATE TOURIST TRADE

Ottawa—A $200,000 federal advertising and publicity campaign in support of the tourist industry throughout the Dominion, to start immediately, was advocated before the senate tourist committee by Theodore G. Morgan, Montreal, chairman of the executive committee of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity bureaus.

The senate committee, under the chairmanship of Senator W. H. Denison, Halifax, engaged in formulating a plan for national consideration of the tourist industry, supplementing the present activities of the provinces' transportation companies, automobile clubs and various individual organizations.

It had been suggested that a federal tourist department of advertising, publicity and development be established to supplement the activities of the provinces and local organizations.

The campaign for this year should be pushed immediately, said Mr. Morgan. The summer tourist traffic was in May and will pick up throughout June, July and August. An immediate campaign would not only be effective this year, but would stimulate fall and winter business, and should be continued into 1934.

Based upon financial returns to Montreal from the expenditures of the Montreal tourist bureau, Mr. Morgan advanced $200,000 as a minimum amount that should be appropriated for a 1934 campaign. He further suggested that $500,000 be expended annually by the Dominion newspaper and magazine advertising for tourist trade expansion would be more than justified by the increased business that would follow.

This estimate was based upon an appropriation for advertising and publicity of five per cent. of the total annually expended by tourists from outside the Dominion, apart from inter-provincial tourist traffic. The Dominion bureau of statistics estimated the 1933 tourist business at $100,000,000.

J. Van Wick, general manager of the Canadian National hotel department, told the committee that summer tourists from the United States spent $350,000 in Canadian National hotels last year. Newspaper and magazine advertising to attract this business had been $15,000.

AGREE ON NEW FORM OF WHEAT PRICE BASIS

London.—The world wheat advisory commission agreed on a new and clarified form of a minimum wheat-price basis. The commission contemplates an increase in wheat prices up to 10 per cent. over the present level. The plan is not to attempt any sudden jump but to effect gradual increases "from zero to 10 per cent."

Under the scheme as drafted at Rome, difficulty arose as between quotations on the basis of C.I.F. and F.O.B. prices, the first being paid when laid down, cost, insurance and freight paid; the second wheat arriving free on board. As now revised and adopted by the conference, the minimum export price when worked out will be expressed in terms of sterling, on the C.I.F. basis.

Each exporting country will be left to work out the F.O.B. price in its own currency. The exporting country, however, must not fix equivalent F.O.B. prices below a C.I.F. minimum determined by the small price-fixing committee, which would be established under the plan, to settle on prices according to supply and demand with a view of maintaining a fixed level.

Individual delegates were inclined to be resentful of remarks of the British delegate, Sir Herbert Robson, head of the London grain exchange, who said in a public speech the delegates "are very charming diplomats but very few of them know anything about wheat."

Forest Fires In Europe

Heavy Loss Of Life And Property In Three Countries

PARIS.—Forest fires, an aftermath of the severe drought gripping many parts of Europe caused widespread damage and loss of life in three continental countries.

In Poland, flames destroyed two villages in Silesia and Malopolska. Three children lost their lives and many were injured as 400 houses were burned.

Fires starting in the dense woods of Romania crept into the city of Campulung-Muscel, and the towns of Buzau and Silistra, taking a heavy toll.

Strong winds fanned the flames at Campulung-Muscel and more than 60 houses were destroyed. Damage was placed at $500,000. Shortages of water hampered attempts to curb the blazes.

Forests fires that laid waste 5,500 acres of pine and threatened the valuable turpentine region southwest of Bordeaux, France, were believed to be under control. A 15-mile area near Belin and the small district of Archachon was swept by the flames.

Peace On The Pacific

Says War Between Japan And United States Is Remote

VANCOUVER.—The interdependence of the United States and Japan in economic needs and the necessity for exchange of commodities in large quantities makes any possibility of conflict between them so remote, and that constitutes a guarantee for the maintenance of peace in the vast region of the Pacific," it was stated here by Hon. Ieyama Tokugawa, Japanese minister to Canada.

He was addressing the convocation banquet of the University of British Columbia, from which he had earlier in the day received the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

"Even apart from the sphere of trade, there can be no doubt that the Pacific ocean becomes more and more a source of international importance. It is always my confident belief that all the nations bordering on that ocean should endeavor to attain complete accord and co-operation among them in order to maintain the peace of that vast region."

Disarmament Deadlock

London.—Reports of an actual split in the cabinet over the next step to be taken in the disarmament deadlock were discounted, but it was plain that no definite announcement of British policy may be expected before the world disarmament conference reassembles at Geneva on May 29.

During his discourse at Bellevue on Sunday night, before an audience of close on 400 people, many of whom were former Newfoundlanders, among whom he had years ago ministered, Dr. Bryce made mention of certain Newfoundlanders he had met in his sojourn through Canada. He mentioned the small and the big, in the latter not forgetting to state that an occupant of a tick pew this Sunday night used to be a conspicuous figure in a similar position in the Methodist church which happened to be his first on this side of the Atlantic, some thirty years ago. That church today stands as a monument to the pioneer work of Dr. Bryce in what was then a small hamlet, and which today is serving a largely expanded community on the west coast of Newfoundland; while the lout and lanky individual to whom he made such kindly reference was the present editor and proprietor of this g.f.j.

During Dr. Bryce's ministry at Curling, Newfoundland, ye editor's father was so active a member of the congregation as to be entrusted with the salary payments of the minister. Little could one imagine at that time that this humble, kindly student-nisionary would some day rise to be one of the great heads of one of the largest religious bodies in the world. Those who heard Dr. Bryce on Sunday last could not but admire him, not only for his personality, but for the great work he has undertaken and is successfully mastering.

As a matter of fact, he has never let his rod loose from his hand, and has never yet caught a bait or fly. In the Calgary Musical Festival on Wednesday last Edith Wise and Beatrice Trono came first in the two-piano class, receiving 90 marks. Miss Trono is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Trono, Blairmore. In senior piano, Miss Trono came second with 84. Miss Wise is a student teacher. Speaking of the two-piano contest, Dr. Collingwood said: "The Arensky waltz was a beautiful selection. The winners, Misses Wise and Trono, played it with an elegant floating charm that appealed to his personal preference more than the deliberate interpretation of the other competitors, which they justified, however."

HELPING MOTHER

I've got a little sweeping brush,
A duster and a pan,
And when my Mummy's in a rush
I help her all I can.

I clean the currants when she bakes,
And beat the eggs up, too;
Then put the almonds on the cakes,
And only eat a few.

I range the chairs against the wall,
And tend their little boys,
One day I let a teapot fall—
It made the loveliest noise.

I wash my day I never rest,
And yet it's strange to say
That Mummy says I help the best
When I go out to play.

Customer: "And if he does not pay, what?"

Taking Your DOLLAR To Market

EVERY year your family, and every family of your acquaintance, spends about 70 per cent of its income just for living, exclusive of rent—so economic experts tell us. Think what this means—seven dollars out of every ten invested in food, clothing, household utilities and all the multitude of things that keep a family comfortable and happy.

That part of spending is readily understood. But do you realize that every manufacturer and retailer of these necessities is planning how he can get your dollar?

It's a big job to spend so much money wisely and well. It requires careful business methods to get the best possible returns from each dollar that leaves the family purse.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Ralph Esterbrook and Andrew have returned to their home in Calgary, after paying a visit of a few weeks with relatives here.

The Cowley school team was defeated by the Lundbreck team in a game of softball on Monday evening, with a score of 5-1.

Clean-up day was observed in Cowley on Wednesday, when the town was cleared of all junk and rubbish, and made neat and orderly with this bit of spring cleaning, which is done annually.

P. Patterson, who has been under special care of a physician in Calgary for several days, has returned home.

On Sunday afternoon, with a large crowd of fans in attendance, Todd Creek played a return game of baseball with Cowley on home ground, with Cowley emerging victors in a 7-4 score.

There was a large attendance at the funeral of Mrs. James Smyth, which took place from the Union church to the Cowley cemetery on Thursday afternoon, where interment was made, with Rev. N. Whitmore, of Pincher Creek, performing the last sad rites. Floral tributes were many and beautiful, showing tokens of love and esteem for the departed. Mrs. Smyth leaves to mourn her loss a devoted husband, three step-children, Eddy, Harry and Muriel Smyth, and one adopted daughter, Mrs. White, of Vancouver.

A very enthusiastic Social-Credit Douglas meeting, sponsored by William Aberhart, of Calgary, was held in the Oddfellow's hall here on Saturday night, with an attendance of around two hundred. Mrs. Rogers and Mr. Unwin, of Calgary, were the speakers for the evening, and outlined and explained in a plain and forceful manner the working plan of the new social movement, which brought many hearty hand-claps from the audience as they drove their points home in a convincing way.

TAKE TIME TO FISH

Spirits get low and minds get dull;

When wisest heads can hardly act;

It's rest one needs to pep him up,

And make success a crowning fact.

You're having many ups and downs,

For death sometimes you almost wish;

But you'll feel like a young spring colt,

If you'll but take the time to fish.

Be sure to take your frying pan,

Your meat, salt, bread and lard;

And cook your fish along the bank,

And all your business cares discard.

Retirement is not what you need,

You need your bait, hook and line;

Go fish a day, or else a week,

And you'll return "just feeling fine."

Record Crowds See Codex Sinaiticus At British Museum

Record crowds have been attracted to the British Museum in London to see the Codex Sinaiticus, the $500,000 fourth-century manuscript Bible bought from the Soviet government. One's attendance was $1.00; admission to the British Museum was $1.00. There has been a line waiting to get into the building. Response to the public appeal for $250,000 to complete the purchase of the work has been unusually generous. More than $20,000 was contributed in a few days and the entire amount is expected to be raised within three months. The government will supply the other $250,000. The museum officials have written to the Soviet government regarding a fragment of the Codex, about three inches long and one inch wide, which is missing. There is no question of it having been lost while the Bible was on the way from Russia, they say.

Wise Spending

Wise spending is the only thing that keeps business going. Nigardly economy has no place in world's progress. The great trouble with us these days, as we see it, is that in time of plenty we did too much foolish spending. Instead of obligating ourselves for debts that meant investment, we launched an orgy of spending for spending only, in which business was not considered and pleasure only thought of.

The Tower of Babel was tongue-tied in comparison to the little town of Chalate-en-Galinas, France, of 5,500 inhabitants, eighty miles from Paris. There are 2,794 foreigners residing there, and the town, all told, speaks twenty-two languages. Mar ket day, therefore, is complicated.

Gardening

Avoid Planting Seeds Too Deep And Too Close Together

The most common mistakes in gardening are sowing seed too deep and allowing plants to grow too close together. As a general rule three times the diameter of the seed is the proper depth to sow. This means merely pressing things like lettuce, turnips and radish into the soil, but covering the larger seeds such as corn, beans, peas, and beets to a depth of about an inch. With flowers, the finer sorts like Alyssum, and Poppies should be sown on top of the ground and barely pressed in. Some of these very fine seeds are best mixed thoroughly with a little dry sand and the mixture sown to avoid sowing too thick. Bulb and tubers such as potatoes, gladiolus and dahlias are put in from six to eight inches. Thinning is just as important. With flowers the rule to follow is to allow half as much space between as the plants are high. In every seed catalogue is given the mature plant size so you can compare your working with the ordinary type Zinnia. When fully grown this will be a bushy plant about 18 inches high and almost the same across, therefore it should be thinned to stand about ten inches apart. Not only will such thinning result in stouter plants but they will also be more bushy and symmetrical. Even the quick growing leaf lettuce and radish should be thinned, though an inch between plants will be enough. Beans, peas and corn being big seeds are at the proper distance, that is at least three inches apart and in the case of corn, six inches. Two inches apart will be enough for beets and carrots. Of course this does not allow full development but when the plants begin to fill up the space, half of them should be taken out and used.

Gardening is very inexpensive in the way of necessary equipment. With a rake, a spade and a spade one can cultivate wonders, though the place is a large one, it is advisable to have a few more tools. At this time of year, a string and a few stakes for making straight rows will come in handy. One of the small garden tractors which cultivates, seeds, and even plows will take the place of a horse. Later on when it is necessary to cultivate once a week first to conserve the moisture and secondly to destroy weeds, a five-toothed, hand cultivator costing less than two dollars will save hours of time with the hoe. Of the latter implement there are several sizes available. Some are pushed ahead and being very sharp they shave off weeds beneath trees and close to rows which are usually hard placed to reach with the ordinary hoe. A digging fork in ordinary garden soil is to be preferred to a spade. For the flower garden, a trowel and hand digging fork about ten inches long will be found useful.

Tender vegetables must be grown quickly. Especially with such things as radish, carrots and beets, is slow growth disastrous as the roots become woody and filled with objectionable fibers. But this rule also applies to those things used for salads. On this account it is important to push growth along with frequent cultivation, which in addition to checking weeds also conserves moisture. Cultivation alone will often keep the vegetables going through a dry spell but of course a few pails of water or an hour or two with the hose at this time, will prove beneficial. Where the supply of water is not as convenient as it might be it is a good plan, in laying out the garden, to plant those things, most in need of extra moisture, such as radish, lettuce and celery, closest to the pump. Fertilizer, is another way of hurrying growth and therefore assuring vegetables of the highest quality.

While $14,240,000 in gold was shipped from Shanghai, China, last year, practically none was received there. To a lot of people the best summer holiday of all would be a job.

All French officers will have to sink or swim in the future. Marshal Pétain, minister of war and venerable defender of Verdun, has issued an order that swimming will be part of the entrance examinations to all French military schools from now on. It is the marshal's intention eventually to equip all military camps with swimming pools, where soldiers will be obliged to learn how to keep afloat.

Little Journeys In Science

METALS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Interesting examples of the practical application of science to everyday life may be found in the extraction and use of metals. The metals known to the ancients were gold, silver, copper, lead, tin, and mercury. Gold and copper have been used since prehistoric times, and it is likely that these were the first metals used by man. Until the middle of the 19th century the only metals in common use were copper, iron, tin, zinc, and the mixtures or alloys called bronze (copper and tin) and brass (copper and zinc). Steel is simply a form of iron containing small amounts of carbon and other substances.

Aluminum was discovered in 1825 and was not very rare or valuable. It is a constituent of clay. In 1854 a method was devised by which it could be manufactured, by which the French chemist Deville. In 1866, C. W. Siemens and P. L. Martin devised a new process depending on the use of electricity. By means of this new method aluminum was produced cheaply in large quantities. Steel and brass were used extensively. Science has not yet discovered a method of extracting aluminum from clay and most of it is obtained from the mineral bauxite.

Magnesium is another metal which was not known until early in the 19th century. This metal is also obtained by electrolysis. It is an alloy of magnesium with aluminum known as magnalium has great strength and is very light. This alloy is only about twice as heavy as an equal volume of steel. It is about eight times as heavy as water. Alloys of this kind are used in air ships and motor construction. Many valuable metals are produced by mixing or alloying simple metals. For centuries man has used bronze and brass, which are alloys. Brass is a type of lead and tin alloy. Tin is an alloy of lead and antimony. Tin is an alloy of which the property of expanding slightly when the metal is hardened, so that sharp impressions of the moulds are made. Magnalium is an alloy of iron with chromium and nickel, and many special steels contain iron alloyed with metals such as tungsten, molybdenum, etc. These are used in the manufacture of chisels, lath tools, parts of motor cars, railway tracks and the steel for bridges.

SYNOPSIS

Camilia Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, decide to live a simple, poverty-stricken life until Peter is able to provide for her.

Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilia is the adopted daughter of a wealthy man. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of finding a job in an agency firm. Others in the story are Avis, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin, former residents with whom he had quarreled. After a party at an exclusive club, when the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the fun, Peter and Camilia decide to walk on the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another girl are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilia to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Avis' mother rents a studio on the same floor as Peter and Camilia and has to leave much there. He accepts reluctantly, but is favorably impressed with his visit. Camilia urges Peter to accept some of her earnings to help him get his scholarship, but they quarrel. After Camilia has gone from the studio, Avis' mother calls and persuades Peter to accept a loan of $3,000. Peter and Camilia are reconciled. Avis then tells them that she introduces Peter to well-known artists and public men.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XLIII.

Terry rebuked Camilia gently, when he danced with her. "Aren't you a little sorry for the way you deceived and then deserted us all? I'll never be the same again, since I lost you," he sighed.

He was probably as sincere as he could be about anything, but Camilia knew that he could not have been deeply affected. "Perhaps it is just as well you are changed," she taunted him, laughing. "Besides, I didn't desert the crowd just because I married Peter. It was all arranged that I should soon drop out of your life long before that."

"Not if you had listened to me. I've tried to persuade you to marry me for two years. What's this absurd thing I hear about your working?"

"I am, and it's not the least bit absurd. It's wonderful. I never was so happy in my life."

"But that's not fair, you taking care of yourself when you are married. What's your husband for?"

"Oh, I'm saving him for the future," Terry laughed. "It isn't that Peter can't take care of himself. I defended him. 'I just won't interfere with his work, now, when every day is so important to his career. Besides, I have my own ambition to work out, and I don't want him to interfere with that, either.'

"What is an ambition? Do tell me, because I should like to recognize one if I saw it. Is it a disease, and can it be cured?" Terry ridiculed.

"Oh, I could tell you all about it, but you never would be able to recognize the symptoms. You should be ashamed of being such a waster. Where do you suppose the money comes from that you spend?"

W. N. U. 2046

"Why, from the old man," he explained, as guiltless as a child discussing money.

"Really. But did you never try to estimate what it represents or thought and effort, to provide you with so much?"

"Why should I bother about that? One person's thought and effort are enough to waste on it. What I think about these days is the fact that the governor has cut me about twenty per cent. and I can't convince him that my expenses are more instead of less."

"Everyone is trying to reconcile those two contradictory facts these days. Too bad for you that you don't have to earn your living for awhile."

"Say, what have you got against me, anyway? I know. Just because you have to ton, and want everyone else to break rocks. Must you like that, because you have an ambition?"

"Just like you enough that I'd like to see you a man, Terry."

He drew her closer in his embrace as they ended the dance. "And I like you well enough that I still want you."

"Don't be silly," she protested, and turned her attention to someone else.

All her old friends were delighted to see her again. Camilia discovered they chided her for her neglect of them, were curious about her work, doubted or admired her seriously. She gave them no details concerning her position, only that she did good for Weeks and Bowman. She did not tell Alexander Hoyt to discover at this crucial time that she had met fate at the point of her pencil.

The test would begin to prove itself soon. The first copy had gone out and was already on the presses, would appear in magazines all over the nation within the following week. Any upward trend of the Wheat heart Cereal business would manifest very soon if the juvenile public accepted her Tiny Tot with enthusiasm.

Both Weeks and Bowman were optimistic. "Of course," Mr. Bowman had conceded, "we can't expect enormous returns under present conditions. But if the idea catches on, there is bound to be a decided improvement."

He was more generous with his praise than Mr. Weeks, chuckled over the exploits of father and mother Tiny Tot and their large family, their friends and relatives.

There were, among many others, Uncle Joe, the one-legged sailor, who told the children such fascinating tales; Aunt Min to whom all the children took little trouble, to be effected with delicacy; Wheatheart Cereal cookies and many more old Grassy, the ringer who hoarded gold and frightened the children from his wretched hut that lured them with its strange and fearful reports. They were so tiny that they slept in peanut shells and made a meal of one cereal flake, were delighted over a treat of a grain of sugar, made a palace of a cereal carton.

While Camilia worked, at her sketches, she lived in a different world, alone. Even Peter never entered there, except to poke his head into her thoughts and entice her away for a few moments at times. She lived her hours there with the shells of her fancy and often left them with genuine regret.

During those first weeks, she was engrossed that she worked late at the office many times. She discovered that when the pleasant, spacious rooms became silent for the night, she accomplished more work with better results. It was even more satisfactory than working at the apartment, which she did sometimes, also. No conflicting thoughts or duties interrupted her, and she grew to appreciate more her wisdom in living apart from Peter so that he might work alone, also.

She was more concerned over the fact that Avis had come to live again at the office for Peter, than she admitted. Not a man, she said, was jealous of Avis' interest in Peter, but because she feared that her presence there would take from Peter just what she had sacrificed so much to provide for him, his privacy.

Fortunately, for her peace of mind, Peter never told her how many times Avis interrupted his work and insisted upon his relaxing for an hour in her company. These omissions in his confidences were not so intentional as they were natural. He had precious little time to discuss anything with Camilia in those days and, like all men, he did not realize himself how many hours he did pass in Avis' company. They were so casual and pleasant, conveniently interspersed with working hours, as she purposely arranged, that he was scarcely aware that he saw more of Avis than did his wife.

So, on the night of her reception,

Avis took possession of Peter and Camilia. No carefully that no one might witness it. They departed with such glee, however, that Peter and Peter were their hosts and host.

With Peter's studio across the hall and he a new tenant in the colony, also, it did not seem at all improbable.

Avis insisted that Camilia and Peter remain until the last guests had gone, then she turned her attention wholly upon Camilia. "I can't thank you enough for helping me so beautifully this evening, dear. It was too sweet of you, the way you got people together and helped to entertain them. Do stay with me for awhile, and while Tillie clears up the worst of the wreckage, we can have a bite together. I'm sure you didn't have time to eat—I know I didn't. But I think everyone did have a good time, don't you?" anxiously.

"No doubt about that," Camilia assured her with sincerity. "But I didn't do so much. I had a good time, myself."

"I'm so happy if you did. I'm afraid I rather neglected you, depending on you to help me as I did. It kept me pretty busy, telling people about you. Did you notice how popular he was?" she asked, pleased and impressed.

"Oh, I say!" Peter objected. "It was you who were popular, and they listened to what you said about me because you were talking."

"Isn't that just like him?" she asked Camilia with exasperation, as if they shared his idiosyncrasies with a common indulgence of them.

She passed glasses of punch and a plate of sandwiches.

"You will be sending me a board bill some day," Peter retorted, "if I don't quite eating over here."

Camilia looked up quickly.

Avis laughed. "He has the most exaggerated sense of obligation I ever met. Just because he eats a meal here and I make him stop work long enough to drink a cup of coffee occasionally, he wants me to punch a meal ticket for him. Actually, I'm not much good at that."

"I am," she said, "but I believe he would do it."

"And since you have time to have a meal, I believe he would do it."

Pennsylvania Professor Believes His Idea Would Increase Sales

A system under which all productive labor would be done from 7 a.m. until noon, all distributive work, such as selling, would be done from noon to 6 p.m., and amusements permitted to be open from 6 p.m. to midnight only, is advocated by Dr. Herbert W. Hess, professor of merchandising at the Wharton school of the University of Pennsylvania.

Speaking before a group of Philadelphia Dr. Hess pointed out that under the present system nearly all buying is done by women, because men have to work during the day and finish when the stores close. If both men and women could be free to buy, sales would increase greatly, he declared.

Edison's Dream Coming True

Making Rubber From Goldenrod Appeals To Success

A dream of the late Thomas Alva Edison—to insure the United States an emergency source of rubber in the event the tropical supply should be curtailed—lives in the miniature rubber plantation near Fort Myers, Florida. Flowing from the tiny goldenrod plant, finally selected by the "wizard" after more than 100,000 tests of various other weeds, rubber, in the crude, is now an immediate commercial availability may be.

While secrecy has enveloped the work, it is understood that Edison pronounced the product capable of standing rigid tests before his death. Ford, Harvey Firestone, retain their interest in the project which they aided in financing a staff of five men to work on—the dream is coming true.

Associates of the late inventor and he planned his synthetic rubber development to meet such a situation as some business interests fear may result from recent steps to limit production by nations which control the world's supply of the commodity.

German Manufacturers Doing Their Best To Meet Hitler's Wish

Herr Hitler, speaking at the opening of the Berlin Motor Show, pointed out that there are today only 500,000 motor cars in use in Germany, whereas, if the country is to come up to the level of other Western countries, there should be at least 3,000,000.

He urged manufacturers to produce cheap cars which people of small means could buy.

The trade is already doing its best to meet his wish. Exhibits include a small car from the Framo works, with a 300cc engine placed at the back, costing 1,225 marks, or $81 at par.

The Standard Superior, with a 500c.c. or 400c.c. engine and independent wheel springs, costs $80, and the Hansa, Lloyd and Goliath three-wheel saloon, with 500c.c. engine can be had for $44.

There is room enough in these little vehicles for two grown-ups and two children.

About Sea Serpents

Old Mariners Deplore The Unbelief Of Scientists

If scientists possessed faith "the size of a grain of mustard seed," several skippers agreed, they would not scoff at sea serpents.

These days, during a lively discussion on the mysteries of the deeps, declared the attitude adopted by scientists to the belief that serpents had been "without imagination or emotion from the very start."

They believed by name Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, who said recently the Loch Ness monster probably was only a killer whale, and Dr. William Beebe, who thinks it may be merely a mechanical contraption.

"It's downright ungracious of these distinguished gentlemen," said Captain Thomas W. Sheridan, former superintendent of the New York nautical school, "to dispose of the dire denizen of Scotland in such a prosaic manner."

"Why, that sea serpent of Loch Ness has lived the news of the world now for nearly a year. We owe it a debt of gratitude."

"And," said Captain Felix Risberg, sea author, "they ought to remember the Shakespearean quotation: 'There are more things in heaven and earth Horatio than are kenned of in your philosophy.'

"And," said Captain Felix Risberg, sea author, "they ought to remember too, that sea serpents have been earnestly and devoutly believed in by numbers of super-seamen of undoubted veracity since the beginning of time."

"Some of our best literature is about the seeing of these beasts."

Captain Frederick Fender, assistant marine superintendent of the international mercantile marine, said "one of the greatest authorities America ever had on sea serpents" was the late Captain Clausen of the magnetic ship Carnegie.

"He used to tell us by the hour," said Fender, "about seeing sea serpents. He told us once he saw a whale in a Norwegian fjord pull the water boiled with fury and villages miles inland were swept by fire."

None of these seamen would admit ever having seen a serpent with his own eyes but all agreed that "what scientists need is a grain of faith in sea beasts—and a mite more of forbearance."
